

This image shows a vertical strip, likely a page from a book or a document. The left side is a dark, textured surface, possibly a binding or a cover. The right side is a lighter, textured surface, possibly a page of paper. A thin vertical line separates the two surfaces. There are some small, dark spots and marks on the lighter surface, which could be dust or ink. The overall appearance is that of a scan of a physical document.

